Loyola Press Sunday Family Connections

Gospel Reading
Matthew 11:25-30

Jesus prays in thanks to God, who has revealed himself to the lowly.

In today's Gospel, Jesus teaches an important lesson for families: from the youngest and simplest among us we can learn the most profound insights about God. Parents who are attentive to this reality can learn much from their children even as their children are learning from them. Families who create time and space for encounters with God will enrich the faith of all who share in family life.

Gather as a family and read together today's Gospel, Matthew 11:25-30. Allow time for each person to reflect on what Jesus reveals to us about God. Invite each person to show these things in a creative way, perhaps through a picture, poem, or some other means. Share these with one another. Conclude in prayer together, thanking Jesus for making God known to us. Pray together the Lord's Prayer or today's Psalm, Psalm 145.

Baptism classes are offered once a month if there are parents interested in Baptizing. If you are planning on Baptizing or being godparents please contact the office during working hours Tuesday thru Thursday from 10 am to 2 pm.

Dear Pro-Life Advocates, We have a very special need we're asking our Pro-Life community to pray about and respond to immediately. Our beloved Sue Jeffries has been creating all the beautiful wall art scenes for our Wee Love Life Fair Booth using her artistic abilities for years. She has clearly expressed to those on the fair committee - it is time for her to pass that baton on to someone else. We're asking all of you to consider whether you're an artistically inspired individual who desires to use your talents for pro-life purposes. Sue is willing to help show someone else the ropes this year, but wants another person to lead this annual art project. There are always volunteers available to put up and take down the artwork with directions from the leader, but we need an artist who loves or is capable of doing wall art as backdrops for the suggested fair themes. We have the direction for this year's theme, so this year is a perfect opportunity to work with Sue and learn how to take this over. If you're interested, please contact Cassandra Walker at 503-842-5977 or respond to this e-mail ASAP. This is very time sensitive as we only have about a month to prepare. Thank you, Cassandra Walker—Wee Love Life Admin. Team

Have you been wondering if you are being called to active ministry in our church?

There is training for every ministry and you will have opportunities to practice. It's normal to be nervous, it's something new, important and beautiful. Take a chance.

Sacristan arrives early to prepare the altar for Mass. This ministry involves setting the books for the Mass, preparing the Chalice, and making sure all items needed for Mass are in place. After mass, the same items are put away properly.

Extraordinary Minister (EM) this ministry is commissioned to assist the priest in distributing communion

Lector this includes reading the payer before Mass, first and second reading and prayers of the faithful.

Usher this ministry involves coming in early to greet people as they enter the church, taking care of the collection and helping people find seating as needed during large masses.

Alter Server assists the priests in procession and during Mass, Must be 7 yrs old or older and have made your first communion. Yes, Adults you are welcome too.

Homebound Minister This ministry takes communion to the sick and homebound. Generally, it could be just 1 or 2 persons that you would take communion to. There is a guided script to help and training. Having people who live in different part of the parish is helpful.

Religious Education This ministry teaches or supports teachers in religious education of parish children to grow in faith, understanding, and love preparing them to receive the sacraments and to build a future with Christ at the center of their heart.

Youth Ministry There currently isn't an active ministry, but if you have this call maybe something in the future is possible.

Today's Reflection Fourteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time (Year A) Sunday July 5, 2026

A long time ago I began to search for some way to understand death as continuous with life. Otherwise dying is merely a cancellation. And suffering is just a smaller version of it.

Jesus seems to imply that we needn't worry about it, just come close to him. "Come to me all who labor and are burdened and I will give you rest," he says in this week's Gospel. But in Holy Week we experienced Jesus' passion and death on the Cross, which do not seem restful, at least to this writer.

And how about 9/11, and Iraq, and AIDS, and the tsunami and earthquakes, hurricanes, tornadoes and such? Yes we turn to the Lord and we do find comfort, many of us, but it doesn't really seem restful.

And, of course, there are clergy who abuse children and young people, even though these same men took up the Lord's life explicitly and made themselves public witnesses of it. Have these men ever slept an undisturbed sleep since their crimes? Even if they have, clearly the survivors have not.

Long ago I began quoting with gusto the words of Dylan Thomas, that ragged poet, who if rumor is true drank himself to the death he dreaded. He wrote this to his father who was upon his death bed.

Do not go gentle into that good night,

Old Age should burn and rave at close of day;

Rage, rage against the dying of the light.

Yes, rage.

And in his great poem, "Fern Hill," the same poet says,

Oh as I was young and easy

in the mercy of his means,

Time held me green and dying

Though I sang in my chains like the sea.

Time steals away the life and liveliness of human beings, whatever of it the world has not already plundered, and death puts an end to it all. How does Jesus give us rest from these kinds of weariness and burden? In what way does he make death easy?

"I am meek and humble of heart; and you will find rest for yourselves," he says. Read it in the Gospel. Can it be true? How can we welcome a savior who is meek and humble instead of fiercely opposing the disastrous wrongs?

Jesus' words do bring some fledgling kind of calm in the face of all this. Somehow he compels us, consoles us. Actually you might say that he reveals one of life's secrets that we might never have guessed. What can it be?

Seek it in me, Jesus says. "I am meek, and riding on an ass, on a colt, the foal of an ass" (First Reading). Watch me on the sad height of Calvary and see. I have let it all go—belongings, beloveds, repute, all. But one thing remains. Make it your life, in the midst of sorrow, in every act of living and of dying. It is the center of my life.

Love. Love of God and neighbor.

If you can let go into the arms of the Great Love, give your life away instead of raging, you will know rest from your burdens; you will see how death is the ultimate act of giving yourself away, as Jesus did, burdens or not.

Here I want to start with the question, what is the source and goal of them both, life and death?
